THE AMERICAN RESIDENT PROJECT FELLOWSHIP APPLICATION FORM

The American Resident Project Writing Fellows contribute monthly blog posts about their experiences in and perspectives on health care delivery. Writing Fellows may also be invited to take part in webinars or live events at medical schools, teaching hospitals, or conferences around the country. In addition to these opportunities, Writing Fellows receive an annual stipend as compensation for their time, and also gain a strong professional network of peers from across the country. To be considered for the Writing Fellowship, please complete the application below.

Application Instructions:
- Please put together a complete application package, which includes:
    I. A completed basic application form (below);
    II. A resume/curriculum vitae; and
    III. A writing sample.
    IV. (Optional) Evidence of existing social media presence.
- Email the complete application package to americanresidentproject@gmail.com. Please ensure all documents are in PDF format.

I. Basic Application Information

1. Name:

2. Gender: ☐ Male   ☐ Female

3. Mobile:

4. Email address:

5. Name and location of your current medical school, residency program or employer:

6. Anticipated date of graduation (if applicable):

7. Why are you interested in being a The American Resident Project Fellow? Please answer in 200 words or less.

II. Resume/Curriculum Vitae

A resume/curriculum vitae in PDF format must be included with your application.

III. Writing Sample

Please provide a short writing sample of no more than 400 words. Appropriate formats include existing content or contribution to blogs or other sites (please include the link if possible), or a short, relevant sample blog post. Please take a look at exisiting blog posts on www.americanresidentproject.com for further guidance on content and tone.

IV. (Optional) Evidence of Existing Social Media Presence

If relevant, please provide links to your existing social media presence(s), including (but not limited to) your existing Twitter handle, links to a personal blog, links to content you've contributed to outside blogs or other sites, etc.